About Me

I was born in Tulcán, Ecuador and have been living in Buenos Aires, Argentina for 5 years, working in my own fintech company. I'm 28 years old and since young I've been passionate about visual arts mainly thanks to a big influence from my mother side, her being a graphic designer, and her father being a poet. During my youth I was self-taught of digital design tools, interfaces, modeling and animation so when the time to chose an university degree came I decided to follow a more technical branch in order to complement all the design bases already learned.

A huge fan of videogames, during my free time I have been building experiments of digital experiences among which I include virtual and augmented reality, considering them as avante-garde technologies and eventually necessary in society, requiring their own set of interactions, similar to our current contact with a computer, but resembling reality and how we approach to it.
